Cures Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Bronchitis and Consumption.

It still makes the most effectual cure of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, than can be made. Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has performed cures of dangerous diseases of their lungs to a great extent, and given a feeling of safety from their fatal effects, that is well founded. If be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and expense may be saved by this timely protection. Ayer's Hair Vigor,

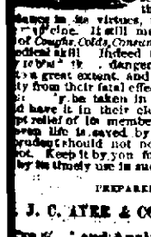
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR.



Advancing years, sickness, care, disappointment and hereditary predisposition, all impair the beauty of the hair, changing it to an unsightly gray, and often cause premature baldness. Ayer's Hair Vigor, by long and extensive use, has proved that it restores the original color to the hair, when only turning gray, and even when fully changed, restores the glossy, silken softness and beauty of youth. This result follows the application of the Vigor, for a few days, or weeks, as the hair is light or dark. Thus beautifully clear and transparent, it is unrivalled as a dressing for the hair, and as it contains neither oil nor dye, it is the cheapest and best. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from falling off, and consequent baldness, and is the most economical preparation to which the afflicted can resort, as only a few cents' worth is required daily, to keep the hair in perfect health and beauty. Those who have thin hair, or are becoming bald, may rely upon a few bottles restoring the hair to its original fullness. Those who have light or gray hair, may have it restored to its original color, which will last for years. Those who have dry, thin, or fading hair, will find that the Vigor imparts to it life, strength, and beauty, and keeps the scalp clean and soft—under which conditions, disease of the scalp are impossible.

Dressing the ladies' hair, the Vigor is prized for its grateful and agreeable perfume, and valued for the soft lustre and richness of tone it imparts.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The repairing of the break of the California Pacific Railroad was completed yesterday morning in a substantial manner. Piles have been driven to strengthen the embankment. The passenger train from Vallejo crossed the break, and reached the city at 12.30 P. M. Afterward another passenger train left Sacramento for Vallejo, and returned last night. To-day trains will be running as before the storm.

Yesterday it became necessary to repair the damage from overheating the main engine in the United States Mint. The mechanic in charge of the engine attached a rope to the gear for the purpose of facilitating operations. On starting the engine into operation the bevel wheels tore out and were ruined. It will be several days before new wheels can be cast. The engine is disabled. A little engine which has not yet been accepted by the Government, is now struggling to furnish power for the Mint.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Pools sold, Occident $550, Fullerton $310. There was hedging on the second heat. In the first heat they were off at the fourth score, Fullerton a half length ahead. At the half-mile Fullerton was 4 lengths ahead. Occident collared him at the three-quarter and won by a half length. Time, 2:19.

The U. S. steamer Benicia, with King Lunalilo on board, is entering the harbor. Salutes will be fired but no public reception will be attempted to-night.

The $6,000 Trotting Race—Occident Wins.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—In the race this afternoon between Occident and Fullerton, for $6,000, Fullerton was the favorite in the pools before the race. Occident drew the pole. On the first heat at the start Fullerton got away a half length ahead, and led three or four lengths at the half mile. At the three-quarter pole Occident collared him, and won the heat in 2:19.

In the second heat Fullerton broke 30 feet from the wire, and stumbled. Occident took the lead. Fullerton nearly closed in on the home stretch, but broke, and Occident won by one length in 2:25. The third heat and race were won by Occident in 2:20½.

Return of the Saranac from Lower California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—Steamer Saranac, Captain W. W. Queen, returned from Lapaz this morning, having accomplished the mission of protecting the lives and property of Americans residing in that vicinity. The Saranac was dispatched in response to the appeal to the Government by Henry S. Brooks, Superintendent of the Horriguera Mines, Triunfo, fifty-two miles from Lapaz, principally owned by Thomas Bell and others of this city. Brooks reported other Americans had been subject to systematic outrages by the Mexican authorities. A serious outbreak was imminent. Mr. Brooks's residence was surrounded in the dead of night and he was arrested on trumped up charges. The general demeanor of the officials indicated a determination to interfere with and suppress the operations of the company. The latest outrage was the unwarrantable seizure of flour and other stores by Mexicans and an order by the District Judge commanding Brooks to surrender all arms in his possession. Brooks refused to accede to the proposition, claiming that his actions were justified by the treaty of 1832. The workmen were armed and the mine fortified; the boundary marked by white flags. Every Mexican who crossed over was disarmed. This was maintained until the arrival of the Saranac. No actual engagement took place. The presence of the Saranac changed the tone of officials. Governor Davalos ordered extra troops for the protection of Americans. The Judge's order commanding forfeiture of arms was rescinded. The Saranac remained at Lapaz one month. All disputes were amicably settled. American residents now feel safer than at any previous interval during the past ten years. At the time of arrival of the Saranac a revolution was hourly expected at Lapaz. Patriots were on duty every night. Great excitement prevailed. The feeling had not subsided when the Saranac left.

The Benecia is at anchor in the harbor. All well on board. The King and suite will remain on board to-night. No demonstration made as yet. National salute will be fired in the morning.

Arrival in San Francisco of David, King of the Sandwich Islands.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—After the Benicia came to anchor last night, Captain Hopkins gave orders to bank the fires and get under way at daylight. The steamer will round to off Broadway wharf, between 8 and 9 o'clock this forenoon. The programme of the occasion involves a royal salute of 21 guns from Alcatraz and a parting salute from the Benicia as the King leaves. Her salute of welcome will be returned by the troops of the National Guard of California, who will act as an escort of the King to the hotel. The Military Division of the Pacific will not participate in the reception because of the rule of etiquette that the King must be first received by the President of the United States before any portion of United States forces should salute. The salute from the Fort is fired by command of General Schofield. The King and suite will be received at B——'s wharf by the Mayor, the Hawaiian Consul and the military, and escorted to quarters prepared for them at the Grand Hotel. He and party will occupy apartments at the Occident, where he will give audience to Consular corps and such other persons as desire to pay respects. The Central Pacific and Union Pacific Railroad Companies will tender him a special drawing-room car for the overland trip to Washington.

Grand Reception of the Hawaiian King.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—About 6,000 people assembled at the naval landing and vicinity to-day to welcome the King of Hawaii and suite. Every ship and steamer, domestic and foreign, displayed their colors, and even the rigging of vessels at the wharves were filled with spectators. When the King left Benicia in the commander's steam yacht all the war vessels in the harbor fired a salute. The yacht steamed down from the foot of Second street to Broadway, where there was an immense throng of people, all eager to catch a glimpse of the royal personage. As the craft neared the wharf a detachment of the City Guard fired another salute, and a portion of Colonel Barnes' regiment formed in line on Broadway to act as escort. The King soon entered a barouche in which Mayor Otis and other officials took seats. The King was dressed plainly, nothing in his costume denoting royalty. The bands played the Hawaiian National Hymn, and the cavalcade moved slowly through the principal streets to the Grand Hotel, where another great crowd was stationed. He was greeted with cheers as he alighted from the carriage, and immediately repaired to the rooms prepared for him in the hotel. It is not definitely known how long he will remain in the city, but probably only a day or two.

A NEW-PARTY MOVEMENT IN MASSACHUSETTS.

[From the Boston Globe (Rep.) Nov. 15.]

"We are informed that among the rank and file of the men who recently voted in this State with the Democratic party, there has been considerable talk of the formation of a third party, to be called the People's Reform Party. These men argue that the mission of the Republican party is ended, and that it is useless to try and resuscitate it. It is apparent to them that contests in the future cannot be fought on the old basis, and the recent election has demonstrated that the time has come for a new party to rise and attract by its honesty of purpose and sincere desire to promote the highest welfare of the nation, the men who have hitherto acted with the Republican and Democratic parties. These men claim, with much show of logic, that the two great parties of the past and present have fought all the fights they can, and that success for the one or the other in the future will be a matter of luck, depending largely on which has the more internal dissensions, and which makes fewer mistakes. The sins of omission and commission of the last years of power of the Democratic party have faded. The Credit Mobilier and other matters which stained the garments and injured the Republicans of prominence are still fresh in the minds of the people. Carl Schurz once said of a prominent New York journalist who was unsuccessful in politics, 'that he had more brilliant future behind him than any other man in the country,' and these men think the same remarks will apply to the great political parties, particularly the Republican. They think that the gentlemen who went into the Liberal movement will readily join the new party, and they have hopes of securing the best elements of the Democratic and Republican parties, particularly the young men, who, as they assume the duties of citizenship, now see no particular reason for joining either party. They have not fully considered the question of platform, but believe, first, in hard money and early resumption of specie payments. Second—A civil service reform which shall in the fullest sense be an application of the ordinary rules of business in all the offices of the Government. Third—An economical administration of affairs, which will keep the rate of taxation at the lowest point. Fourth—Short legislative sessions and the abolition of special legislation, except in extreme cases. Presidential candidates have not been named to any extent, although some names have been mentioned. There is now a diversity of opinion; some parties think another military man, like Sheridan or Sherman, might be elected, and others prefer one with both civil and military record, like General Banks; others oppose a military President and prefer a politician."

COMMONWEALTH REPUBLICAN CLUB ORGANIZED IN MASSACHUSETTS.

[Boston dispatch, Nov. 20th.]

Prominent Republicans in this State have organized a Commonwealth Club, with E. R. Hoar as President, and Henry L. Pierce, Richard Olney, John Q. Adams, and W. E. Perkins as Vice-Presidents. The preamble to the Constitution recites that the members, dissatisfied with the corruption which now prevails in politics, and convinced that this dissatisfaction is not confined to any political party or section of society, but is shared by all honest men alike, agree to form an Association, in the hope that thereby a better understanding may be promoted among men who hold these opinions, and that an interest in all public measures will be excited among those who now stand aloof, through apathy and distrust. In so doing they give no pledge, nor do they abandon the organizations to which they now belong, but say, "We know that honesty and purity in public life are of equal importance to all parties, and that nothing is more necessary than that private citizens take an active and intelligent interest in public affairs."

GENERAL NOTES.

The Treasury Department approves of the suggestion made by the Superintendent of the Mint to coin 20 cent pieces, but disapproves of coining 12½ cent pieces.

The birth of a son to the Duchess of Edinburgh increases the number of Queen Victoria's grand-children to twenty-six, and of this large family twenty-three are still living.

Two Brooklyn girls, belonging to respectable and wealthy families, and as beautiful as only Brooklyn girls can be, were stopped on Myrtle Avenue late on Thursday night as they were weaving along from side to side, arm in arm, and singing at the top of their voices, "We won't go home 'till morning!" They were promptly escorted home without waiting "till daylight doth appear," and it was discovered that a bottle of wine they had taken slyly from the dinner table and drank in their bedroom was the cause of their disgraceful appearance on the street, they having stepped out "just for a little fun," as they said.

The People's party, of Salem, have nominated candidates for city offices, as follows: For Mayor, Thos. H. Crawford; Recorder, Peter H. D'Arcy; Marshal, W. L. Morris; Treasurer, Lafayette Williams.

The Statesman puts a conundrum: Why are not all the Federal offices in this State concentrated at Portland? Why should any of the inland cities or towns have Federal offices or officers when Portland is so handy?

The O. S. N. Co. is assessed at $273,400 in Wasco county this year. Last year it was $184,000, and the Company claim that their property was more valuable then than now, and they will contest the tax this year.

At a meeting lately held on Fifteen Mile Creek, Wasco county, in relation to establishing a grist mill in that section, $500 was subscribed, to be offered as a bonus to any responsible person who will build the mill.

Some person shot and killed a fine horse belonging to J. W. Rayburn, of Benton county, last week. The animal was found dead with a bullet hole through the flanks from side to side. It is hoped the shot was accidental.

The auditorium at Albany College was crowded on Friday night of last week, the occasion of the third anniversary of the Erodelphian Society. It was the best entertainment, as a whole, ever given by the Society.

The late freshet carried off the bridge across the South Yamhill river, near Amity. This bridge was erected one year ago, and was not damaged by the high water last winter. A large drift of saw logs caught on the bridge and carried it away.

Dallas has a prohibition clause in her Municipal Charter, but the Itemizer tells of a cutting scrape which occurred in a saloon at that place last week because the "vendor of destruction" refused to get a man a bottle of whisky.

The Gazette says: When Rev. J. G. Downing and wife left Los Angeles, California, for Corvallis, they packed their wearing apparel, bedding, table linen, etc., in boxes and shipped them for Corvallis via San Francisco. On the way the boxes were opened and a large portion of the goods abstracted. This was a very heavy loss to Mr. and Mrs. D., especially at the beginning of winter, in their new home.

The Benton Democrat learns that an old gentleman named Kinney was gored by an ox on the mountains back of King's valley. It appears that Mr. Kinney was engaged in salting his cattle when they became scared and ran over him, the horns of one of the oxen striking him just below the heart, penetrating the cavity of the chest and seriously, perhaps fatally, wounding him. The last accounts he was very low.

The Democrat, says: "Colonel Jessup Kinney returned from the Yaquina country the first of the week, where he has been viewing the different passes with a view to locating the Willamette Valley and Coast Railway. He reports the pass by the way of Tum Tum as being much the best, as far as he could judge. The survey will be commenced soon, and the road and grades mapped and estimates made, that work may be commenced early in the spring."

J. B. Underwood has received from the Pacific Bridge Company of San Francisco, a proposition to build a bridge across the Willamet at Eugene. The bill of lumber for the bridge is already in his hands, and in a few days a proposition will be made to those interested to subscribe for the bridge and make it free. If sufficient money cannot be raised to build the bridge with the amount the county is willing to donate, private parties will build a toll bridge.

On Saturday, November 21st, Orleans Grange No. 50, P. of H., of Benton county, celebrated the anniversary of their organization by having a public gathering at the Orleans school house. After listening to short addresses by Bros. Wheeler, White, Wrenn and Winning, interspersed with singing of several odes of the Order, the audience, forty-one in number, satisfied the wants of the "inner man" by partaking of a bountiful supply of "chicken fixins," cake, etc., etc.

Philip Miller, of Eugene City, felt a tickling sensation in the throat the other day which didn't tickle him very much. He presently, says the Journal, "coughed up a horrible looking animal from his throat, and was forthwith relieved. The brute was evidently of an amphibious character, resembling a cross between a saurian and a coyote, and measured fully three-fourths of an inch in length. Its sudden ejection was certainly providential, but how it got there is another question. All we can suggest in regard to the miraculous affair is, that a man is liable to swallow anything since Massachusetts went Democratic.

The editors of all the Vienna papers, including the Presse and Official Gazette, have been summoned before the district tribunal, upon a requisition from the Court of Wurburg, for prematurely publishing the full text of Kullman's indictment. The editor of the Presse refuses to indicate where and how he obtained this document.

THE TERRITORIES.

A chair factory will soon be started at Leiser's Mill in Clarke County.

At an auction sale at Fort Boise, John Levy purchased two mules, and pretty good ones, too, for $9.

A Vancouver man has invented a new kind of ironing board, which is claimed to be a good thing for housewives.

Boys coasting down a hill at Silver City, Idaho, ran into a Chinaman and injured him so that he died the next day.

The Vancouver Register says it is settled that B. F. Shaw is elected to the Territorial Council, over McDonald, by 230 majority.

The Owyhee Avalanche, of Nov. 20th, says: "There is a rumor of a horrible suicide committed at Fairview last night. A woman was at the bottom of it."

Thomas McClellan, of Clarke county, W. T., killed the largest deer ever brought to Vancouver the other day. When dressed it weighed 200 pounds.

Michael Hartigan has been taken to the penitentiary at Steilacoom to serve 90 days—all Christmas days. Michael's term will end in 1973 should he survive.

According to a table made up in the Secretary's office, the members elect of the next Washington Territory Legislature are classified as follows: Council—4 Democrats, 3 Republicans and 2 Independents. House—12 Republicans, 11 Democrats and 2 Independents.

Rev. G. W. Grannis has been assigned to the pastorate of the Methodist Church in Walla Walla. Mr. Grannis was transferred from the Arkansas Conference by Bishop Merrill, and is a young man of good abilities. He arrived in Portland by the last steamer, and proceeded at once to Walla Walla.

The Vancouver Register learns from Alex McAndrew, who came up from Lewis River on Tuesday last, that during the late storm of wind and rain, that a number of trees were blown across the road between his residence and this city, making it almost impossible to get along. He was compelled to cut four or five large sized trees in two twice and roll them out of the road before he could pass.

The Seattle correspondent of the Courier says: "Miss Annie Sheppard, for a time the protege of Dr. Haskell, got out flaming handbills for a thrilling lecture on Sunday night, the 22d inst., about the Magdalen. She started off in high-tide fashion, but soon broke down, to the disgust of herself and others. She soon partly recovered, and gave Dr. Haskell a lecture as only a strong-minded woman can."

The Register notices Thanksgiving ceremonies at Vancouver thus: "The religious services were well attended; business was generally suspended; turkey was scarce when dinner ended; a few social breaches were mended; in the eve to the ball many wended; all social distinctions were blended; the music and supper were splendid; but about McConnell and Durgin's dancing—the least said the easiest mended."

Mr. Wm. Maskelyn, of Walla Walla county, informs the Union that his sheep are dying at the rate of ten to fifteen per day. He is not certain as to the cause, but thinks it is leeches in the river. Mr. Maskelyn's herd is a very fine lot of sheep, and have been well cared for and are now being well fed—still they die by the dozen, and their owner would be glad if anybody can suggest a remedy, less than taking out the sheep's liver.

The Olympia Courier says Mr. L. H. Talcott fractured a rib last week while engaged in packing salmon at the fishery on Skookum Bay, by falling heavily against one of the tanks, and his side became so sore he was compelled to return. They have packed about 60 barrels, and would have added to this largely had not the fishweir broken. Mr. Talcott thinks they would also have been more successful had they used a seine instead of weirs.

A very estimable citizen of Coal Bank, W. T.—Mr. J. C. Davie—lost his life very suddenly on Thursday, Nov. 26th, near his home. He was transporting in a canoe a couple of young men by the name of Johnson, across the Skookum Chuch river, and in some unexplained manner they all lost their seats, and fell into deep water, and Mr. Davis was drowned not more than six feet from shore, while the others with difficulty reached the bank. At last accounts his body had not been found.

The Transcript is surprised to learn that the President's proclamation of February 4, 1873, withholding from sale or disposal of the lands—the San Juan Islands, W. T.—awarded by the Emperor of Germany to the United States, is still in force. Settlers on those Islands recently surveyed can acquire no rights whatever till after the lands are proclaimed open to entry. The surveys are made and plats will probably be filed in the Land Office during the coming winter; but no applications can be filed for these lands till after the report of Gen. Stevens, who is Special Commissioner to hear testimony in regard to claims of British subjects to these lands. His instructions have not been received, and hence he can take no action. It is not probable that settlers there will be able to file for their claims before July next. Settlers can make a note of this and save themselves the trouble and expense of coming to the Land Office to file claims on these lands.

The Register says: That long-desired and long-looked-for patent to Vancouver, has at last arrived and is in the possession of the City Council. There has been considerable discussion provoked respecting the worth of the patent, owing to the fact that it reserves any right that the Mission of St. James may have to the property in question. This, however, does not invalidate the patent. It has been ascertained that this is usual in such cases. Government cannot give to one party the rights of another. Since the reception of the patent the matter has been referred to able attorneys in Portland and they affirm, as we stated in our last issue, that the matter must be thrown into the courts for final adjudication. They affirm that the patent is all that could be asked at the present time. It is a boon now which to work. Any bill now pending before Congress will not change the matter. The Supreme Court of the United States is to determine who owns Vancouver if application is properly made.

TRIAL OF THE BOWEN-"ARGUS" LIBEL SUIT.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 29.—The trial of De mas Ward, proprietor of the Argus, for libelling Henry C. Bowen, by publishing an article reflecting on the character of his late wife, commenced in the Court of Sessions to-day. The alleged confession of Mrs. Bowen concerning the Rev. H. W. Beecher was denied under oath by Mr. Bowen, and his two sons testified to the same effect. DeWitt G. Ray, editor of the Argus, testified that he wrote

MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 30, 1874.

WINTER IN OREGON.

We are not disposed to criticise people, especially immigrants lately arrived, for grumbling at the weather. That is the fashion; and then it is a trifle disagreeable to be rained on nearly every day and have all the days that are not rainy wear such an appearance as indicates impending storms. Yes, and the streets are muddy and sloppy and the sidewalks are seldom dry. All this is unpleasant, to be sure.

But let us talk about this a little more particularly. There may be some considerations the other way. It is now the last of November. It was the middle of the month before the rainy season set in. Up to that time we had an autumn of matchless loveliness—no, not matchless, for it was only an Oregon autumn; but it would be hard to match it anywhere else. This beautiful autumn had succeeded an Oregon summer—a summer which it were worth the trouble of coming all the way to Oregon from—anywhere, to enjoy.

And now we have had half a month of rain?. No. Half a month ago the rain began to fall, and for a few days it fell at a lively rate. It wet things up generally, in the shortest period imaginable. Then we had a few days of clear weather. Wasn't that clear weather delightful, though? Not to speak of. It was the same bright, crisp weather we hear praised so much in connection with other climates, only it was not nearly so cold, the mercury here falling at no time during the clear days lower than 31°, and remaining as low as that only a couple of hours, being all the rest of the time at degrees above the freezing point; but it was anything but enjoyable to the average Oregonian. Everybody complained of being pinched by the cold, and prayed for a return of the Oregon mist with all its inconveniences. The fact is, the bright, "bracing" weather of the Eastern winter, is a good deal better to read about than to live in.

O, but the snow of the Eastern winter, with all its splendid accompaniments of sleigh-bells and great roaring fires, is so delightful! Just think of it—and then of the mud and slop of the Webfoot climate. But is not the snow, with its associations, like the cold, clear sky, much better in romance than in reality? We have a brief trial of it here nearly every winter; never, however, with as severe cold as is common at the East; and how do we relish it? Sometimes it lasts two days; sometimes, though rarely, two weeks; and it always lasts long enough for every one to be heartily longing for its disappearance. Our wet winters—the wetness of which are exaggerated beyond all reason—are found to be less unpleasant when brought into sharp contrast, than the cold, bright, bracing winters of other climes. There are few who would choose clear weather, with the mercury down to twenty-five, or fifteen, or zero, in preference to such weather as Oregon is having just now, and which may be relied upon for eighty out of the ninety days of winter yet to come: cloudy, damp, foggy, with much rain and occasionally an hour of sunshine, and the mercury varying between forty-five and sixty degrees, oftener sixty than forty-five. We commend to those recently arrived here and who get tired of our moist weather, a careful retrospect of the winters they were accustomed to see in the Western States, taking into the account all the inconveniences and disadvantages they entailed; and we feel sure they will not fail to conclude that Oregon is vastly better in this respect than the lands to which their affections now turn.

MULLETT.

Gone from our gaze like a timorous exhalation before the shafts of the sun—Mullett, A. B., Supervising Architect of the Treasury. He was a mighty man of Gath. His power stretched from the rising of the sun even unto the going down thereof. Wherever there was a Custom House there was Mullett known. The wicked associates his name with jobs in [illegible] ... the tow-ered at Washington the terror of the departments and the Chief Engineer of Boss Shepherd's ring. He [illegible], persuaded and compelled. At his command Congress made [illegible] ... and [illegible] ... in a chronic state of unfinishedness, and the doors of the Treasury vaults swung back on their hinges.

This heaven-kissing man has "stepped down and out." Last summer he had a little unpleasantness with Secretary Bristow, at which time he used some bad language which did not please the Kentuckian. But a hollow truce was patched up, and everything seems to have gone well until a few days since he again offended the Secretary, who at once informed him that only one of them could remain in the Treasury Department. So Mullett went.

He never seemed so lovely as in his going. And yet it must be said the time was not altogether propitious. Here the dome of the new Custom House, that copper dome beneath whose ample shadow so many affidavits were fixed up, that dome which mutely pointed to the Starr-s, is leaking. Just as another fat job appears in view Mullett has to make a fool of himself and go out. Well, Mullett has proven a rather costly fish to the General Government. For a few days the "gray mare" will move at a decorous funeral pace, perhaps, and that is all. But Mullett will not lack a monument, for they do say tombstones have been carved in the Custom House yard out of Government stone, and why shouldn't Mullett have one? Why, oh, why?

AN UNNECESSARY ADMONITION.

It seems pretty generally understood in the East that the President has determined to "take strong ground" in his message against the supplemental Civil Rights bill. It can hardly be [illegible] ... as there is the least likelihood of an endeavor being made in good faith to pass it through Congress. Last year, when there appeared no such reason for proceeding cautiously as there is at this time, the Republican Congress refused to consider the bill. We say they refused to consider it, for it was not simply a failure to reach it, as in the case of some other measures, but a studied effort not to reach it. When even the calendar was found in such condition as to render it at all probable the bill would be reached, the seats of its avowed friends in the halls of legislation suddenly became vacant, and their places in the lunch houses full. It was well known also that the President was opposed to the passage of the bill. It had no true friends in Congress, albeit the party in the majority profess to be its friends. They had not the courage to oppose it openly, nor the interest in the subject to pass it and risk a veto.

Under these circumstances, where is the use of the President's taking the field again in opposition to the Civil Rights bill? There is not the slightest danger that Congress will try to pass it. It will sink out of sight this winter. So long as there was a chance to humbug the colored voters with pretenses of friendship for the bill, and thus receive their votes, it was deemed worth while to continue the agitation; but it was never intended to pass it, and now that there are no more elections to come off for a long time, the matter will be allowed to die quietly. The President may as well admonish Congress not to repeal the Fourteenth Amendment as not to pass the Civil Rights bill.

NOT MADDENED BY VICTORY.

It is a very hopeful sign of the times that in the meetings for mutual congratulation over the result of the elections, which have assembled in many of the principal cities of the South, there was no expression of sentiments inimical to the equal rights of all classes of citizens. The hour of triumph is the hour in which such sentiments would be most likely to find utterance, if they existed very generally, and we confess to read with a pleasure that partakes of surprise the proceedings of these congratulatory assemblages and the remarks of the speakers by whom they are addressed. Everywhere the pledge given before the election, by the conservatives, that the rights of all citizens under the Constitution should be respected and protected in the South is repeated after the election. That this is the only road to tranquility and prosperity in that part of the Union, is of course patent to every person whose perceptions are not obscured by prejudice; but we have feared the conduct of the Southern whites, when once they were in power, would demonstrate that their vision was thus obscured. If they can now so far forget their old animosities toward the equality of the races as to carry out in letter and spirit the good intentions they now declare, they will prove themselves capable of the truest heroism and the loftiest patriotism.

Next Monday Congress will meet. Our people will watch with more than usual anxiety for action on our railway projects. There should be no relaxation of efforts on the part of Oregonians to secure favorable action.

The New York papers mention a general increase of business activity, and an impression among business men that livelier times may be expected.

KEEP COOL.

It is scarcely likely that either the Democrats or the Republicans will heed advice gratuitously offered by the New York Tribune, as that great journal does not sustain such relations to either party as to entitle it to be heard in matters of party policy. But if the following well-timed caution receive no attention on account of its source, it ought to be regarded on account of its good sense:

It is not unlikely that in the threatened proceedings against swindling white officials, such as the Marshals, Commissioners, and other agents charged with the execution of the enforcement laws, the victorious Conservatives may be tempted to go too far. Those men have generally been guilty of unlawful party zeal, sometimes of serious offenses against personal liberty, and also of perjury and fraud, and doubtless there are some of them who richly deserve the striped uniform of a convict. But let us have no political martyrs. They keep alive bad causes which would die if they were let alone. The best thing for the South would be to give no thought to vengeance except in a few [illegible] cases, but devote itself to the restoration of its finances. When they go out of office the party functionaries who have done all this dirty work of late years may be trusted to find some other congenial occupation which will carry them straight to the penitentiary.

It may be as well to advise the Republicans also to be cautious, but for a very different reason. In Louisiana they seem to be repeating the frauds of 1872 with as much coolness as if they had born no political revolution and the politicians at Washington were still friendly and still omnipotent. In Tennessee they are pressing proceedings against white citizens for constructive "intimidation" under a strained interpretation of the enforcement laws. These things are getting unsafe. They cannot do the party a modicum of good, and they will take from it the last hope of ever recovering its lost position. The best advice to both sides at such a time as this is to keep cool.

PUBLIC OPINION.

A few Senators and Representatives like Carpenter, Chandler, Patterson, and their colleagues did work in their own States, and triumphed; but a majority of the active, capable, working Republican leaders were indifferent and idle.—Washington Chronicle (Rep.)

The plain meaning, then, of this revolution is that the people on a broad and general scale have become dissatisfied with the policy and the management of the Republican party, as represented by its leaders, including the President himself. There is no other explanation to be given.—The Independent.

The elections teach a significant lesson which politicians would do well to lay to heart: they teach that it is the independent Christian men who really hold the control. It was these men who voted the Democratic tickets in over twenty States, not because they were Democrats themselves, or that they cared a straw for the party, but because they were wearied and sick of the disturbance and corruption and imbecility and oppression of the past ten years.—Christian at Work.

The cause that was championed by Horace Greeley as a candidate for the Presidency, and in which the hopes of the South went darkly down in November, '72 is the same cause the splendid success of which gave rise to the rejoicings of last week, whose echoes have not yet died away in the land. The Liberal movement two years ago, though too far in advance of the prevailing popular sentiment for success, was not a premature preparation for future good.—Richmond Whig. (Dem.)

The greatest curse that to-day rests upon this country comes from active interference with the elections, through that net-work of political power, the Federal offices. It is the greatest evil that afflicts us here at the North, and we have no doubt it is one of the greatest causes of trouble in the elections at the South. If the new dispensation, by whatever party name it is known, can and will set on foot any line of policy that will eventually result in the breaking up of such political rings as are practically maintained at the public cost, it will accomplish the greatest civil service reform possible.—Salem Gazette, (Rep.)

DEATH OF THE U. S. SENATE LIBRARIAN.—Washington, D. C., Nov. 12.—George S. Wagner, of Pennsylvania, the Senate Librarian, died here to-day of congestion of the lungs.

Who he Is.—William Gaston, Governor-elect of Massachusetts, is a native of Killingly, Connecticut, and was fifty-four years old last month. He graduated at Brown University, and has served three years in the House, one year in the Senate, two years as Mayor of Roxbury, two years as Mayor of Boston. He is one of the leaders of the Suffolk bar. In private life he is an estimable gentleman. He will feel a little lonesome, politically as the Legislature and the Governor's Council are Radical, and the Radical ticket except Governor is elected.—N. Y. Examiner.

A CHILD COMES TO LIFE JUST AS IT IS ABOUT TO BE BURIED.—New York, Nov. 17.—The Herald published an account of a resurrection occurring in Westchester county last week. It appears that a seven year-old child of a man named Willis, residing at Yonkers died, as it was supposed, on Thursday. The body was placed on ice, where it remained until Sunday afternoon, when the funeral was to take place. Just as he was about to screw down the coffin lid, the undertaker discovered signs of life. The child was finally resuscitated, but it is said the protracted freezing will prove fatal.

VOL. [illegible]

MONDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 30, 1874.

PRICE [illegible]

CITY.

THE GUNS.—To the average Portland household description is necessary of the ingenious [illegible] known as a pea gun. Every boy between the age of six and sixteen [illegible] is familiar with the character and use of this weapon. Constant practice has enabled [illegible] to attain a degree of precision in projecting small missiles such as bullets, small [illegible] pebbles and marbles, which is quite [illegible]. Emboldened by the undetected [illegible] of many acts of deviltry, these [illegible] hoodlums have assumed an attitude of [illegible] defiance to the authorities. Nothing seems to [illegible] enjoy immunity from their vandal hands. Of [illegible] late we have heard much complaint of the [illegible] mischievous depredations committed by these guns [illegible] in the hands of bad boys. Some days ago a [illegible] boy residing up on Fourth street, had several [illegible] valuable and highly prized pigeons badly crippled by being struck with bullets from these guns. The police authorities were notified, [illegible] but not being able to detect the guilty parties [illegible], of course, powerless to act. [illegible] A few nights since one of the Chinese washhouses in the city was a point of attack. Under cover of darkness they threw small stones [illegible] at bullets until every pane of glass in all the [illegible] windows was shivered. So sly was the work [illegible] done that the police and even the inmates of the house were unable to discover the perpetrators. A number of windows about [illegible] the city bear testimony to this specie of vandalism. It is very difficult to discover the guilty parties as they are always on the alert, [illegible] and the missiles are thrown in a noiseless manner. A number of boys who are known to be [illegible] adept in the use of the pea gun, are suspected [illegible] and narrowly watched by the officers. Guilty [illegible] parties had better desist at once from such [illegible] disreputable sport or take the inevitable results.

A CARD TO GENTLEMEN.—A rather amusing [illegible] occurred on Saturday, at the corner of [illegible] and First streets, not unworthy of mention. Two large corpulent gentlemen happened [illegible] together at that corner, and after having [illegible] passed the usual compliments of the day, engaged in a friendly conversation. While thus [illegible] employed they were joined by two other persons who were also exceedingly obese. Compliments were exchanged, and the circumference of four large corpulent men happening [illegible] to meet at one corner became the subject of [illegible] conversation. This topic led naturally to a [illegible] discussion of respective weights. Each gentleman gave his "fighting weight," the adding [illegible] of which aggregated 923½ lbs., avoirdupois, or an average of 230 pounds and a [illegible] half to every man. Perhaps our readers [illegible] have a curiosity to know who the four [illegible] are. We will gratify it. They are: Messrs. Charles Dexter, Al. [illegible], J. B. Congleand O. Washington Strond. [illegible] The joke was too good to keep, and that is exactly [illegible] why we got hold of it.

[illegible] AT THE THEATER.—A meeting was held [illegible] day at Oro Fino Theater, under the [illegible] of the Young Men's Christian Association. [illegible] At 3:30 o'clock P. M. A short [illegible] service has begun, several hymns were [illegible] sung, one of the Theater, on the sidle [illegible] had a large crowd. At the [illegible] singing, several hundred [illegible] hoodlums came up into the Theater [illegible] and [illegible] went. Lieut. Wilkeson [illegible] read a [illegible] by [illegible] from the Scriptures [illegible] and following with a [illegible] but very excellent [illegible]. The [illegible] continued for three-[illegible] hours of song, brief [illegible] ing of an hour, [illegible], etc. It was a [illegible] meeting, and [illegible] to all concerned. We understand that [illegible] services will be held hereafter in the [illegible] every Sunday afternoon.

[illegible] ACCIDENT.—In Friday's issue we published an account of a [illegible] reported accident [illegible] on Friday, along the canyon [illegible]. The unfortunate [illegible]'s name is J. D. [illegible], as published, and he [illegible] Mr. F. K. Grote. Dr. Kinney brought [illegible] son of Mrs. G. H. Atkinson, his [illegible] by Dr. Cardwell, he set [illegible] Mr. [illegible] A. Chenoweth by the [illegible] a little above the ankle. Herested well [illegible] and hopes to be able to walk [illegible] in a few weeks. The left leg was broken [illegible] the same place when he was about 14 years [illegible] old, and again some years later it was broken [illegible] by the [illegible], but these repeated misfortunes [illegible] have been borne patiently and courageously.

[illegible] WITH PARALYSIS.—Rev. Geo. C. [illegible], of Forest Grove, was struck with [illegible] paralysis last Sunday week while conducting [illegible] services at The Dalles, and has [illegible] been in a very critical condition ever since. [illegible] Yesterday afternoon a dispatch was received [illegible] announcing that the left [illegible] portion of the limbs of Mr. Lair [illegible] were entirely paralyzed, and that his son-in-law, went to The [illegible] Dalles as soon as practicable, brought [illegible] him to this city, where he was met by Mrs. [illegible] Lair. It was not deemed advisable to [illegible] remove him to the Grove, and he is still at [illegible] the hotel. His case though not [illegible] hopeless is very serious. His right side is [illegible] paralyzed, and the other considerably affected. [illegible] He has not the power of speech, though he is [illegible] entirely rational.

[illegible] STRANDED.—Last Friday as two vessels [illegible] named Windward—were coming in [illegible] over the bar, they both ran aground on the [illegible] Middle Sands, below Astoria. The vessels [illegible] managed to sail up to Astoria without [illegible] the aid of a pilot on board. Mistaking the proper [illegible] channel, both vessels got on the sand. The [illegible] tide was far from a little distance upon the [illegible] vessels, and lifted her several feet. It was [illegible] impossible at the time. We understand that [illegible] the [illegible] was floated from the Windward had [illegible] struck in the sand and was leaking [illegible] badly in consequence of her strained position. [illegible] A heavy gale came up while the vessels [illegible] were aground, and the damage will be serious.

[illegible] SUNK.—Finding that their wharf [illegible] was [illegible] undermined, the U. S. N. [illegible] Company have from time to time made additions to the [illegible] large and commodious dock at the [illegible] foot of Ash street, on the company [illegible] property north of [illegible] and now they find it [illegible] necessary to [illegible] the old wharf. Carpenters [illegible] have been employed for some time past in order to complete [illegible] the new wharf on the river side. This project [illegible] is a wharf 80x200 feet. Timbers [illegible] are already laid for a portion of the frame, and by the end of next week the rafters will be up and ready for the roof on.

[illegible] SALE.—We understand that a [illegible] deal was [illegible] consummated to-day for signature [illegible] whereby the steamboats from whistle [illegible] Portland to Oswego, touching just prior to leaving the [illegible] city, at Ross Island. There are a number of steamers [illegible] which are kept up and down [illegible] the river during the different hours of the morning, [illegible] which are allowed to [illegible] each boat, which [illegible] makes a very lively time from about 4 o'clock [illegible] A. M. to 6 every day. The incessant noise [illegible] of the [illegible] whistles has long been a [illegible] source of annoyance to persons sleeping at the [illegible] hotels on the river, and an effort is to be [illegible] made to abate the nuisance.

[illegible] ARRIVAL OF VESSELS.—Yesterday was unusually lively in regard to the arrival of vessels at this port. Early in the day the tug [illegible] Active arrived, having in tow the bark [illegible] Ada, from San Francisco. About the [illegible] same time the bark Annie Stewart arrived with the [illegible] tug Richards, bark Wolfoot and schooner [illegible] Mary, the two last mentioned came from San Francisco, and the former from Europe. Later in the day the tug Favorite arrived with the schooner Brandenmyhl. Last evening the Shoo Fly reached here with two Norwegian barks, the names of which we have been unable to learn.

TRINITY CHURCH.—At a late meeting of the Vestry of Trinity Church, we understand that the contract for rebuilding the edifice which was narrowly escaped total destruction by fire on Thursday, has been awarded Mr. Therkelsen. A large force of carpenters are already [illegible] at work, and the work of building a new roof will be crowded forward with all haste. It will be three months, at least, before the building can be finished. Until that time the regular services will be held in the building just [illegible] north of the new church where the Sunday [illegible] services were held there yesterday morning and evening.

MR. DOLPH'S ILLNESS.—We regret to learn that Hon. J. N. Dolph is still confined to his bed with typhoid fever. On Monday he had a congestive chill, but was [illegible] somewhat better yesterday. We hope soon to [illegible] hear of his convalescence.

CASE OF SEDUCTION.—Rumors are rife concerning a case of seduction which, it is alleged, has recently transpired in East Portland. The parties whose names are intimately connected with this disgraceful affair reside in that town, and are well known on both sides of the river. Until something more definite is known of the case, we forbear to publish the names of the persons. From all we can learn of the affair, it seems to be an aggravated case of seduction. Two persons, it is reported—a woman of loose virtue and her paramour—are directly implicated in the ruin of a young girl scarcely 16 years of age. The seduction, it is alleged, took place several months ago. A few days ago the girl was induced, under fears of being disgraced, to take some drugs for the purpose of destroying all traces of her shame, by the woman who had been instrumental in bringing about her ruin. Sickness followed, when the girl, yielding to the inquiries of her mother, confessed her shame and the name of its author. On the strength of the painfully startling denouement, the mother sent, for the father of the misguided girl, who arrived here a few days ago. Papers, we learn, have been issued for the arrest of the seducer and his mistress-accomplice. When these parties are in the hands of the authorities, we shall have no hesitation in giving all the particulars.

NOT SAILED.—Up to a late hour last evening no passenger list was received of the steamer which was to have left San Francisco on Saturday morning, from which circumstance we are led to infer that none sailed. There are rumors on the streets to the effect that hereafter the O. S. S. Co. propose to run but three steamers per month between Portland and San Francisco, and that the next steamer for this port would not sail until next Tuesday forenoon. This information comes from no very authentic source, but the fact that no passenger list has been received may be considered as a confirmation of the rumors.

MINIATURE THEATRE.—Arrangements, we learn, have been effected by the Masonic Hall Association for the remodeling of the second story of the Masonic Temple with a view to its being converted into a miniature theater. The present stage is to be torn away and a much larger one constructed, with handsome drop curtain and several sets of scenery. The seats will also be remodled and a dress circle and gallery built. The contract has already been let, and carpenters will soon commence work. When completed the hall will be used for a concert room, etc.

RINK—PROMENADE CONCERT.—This place of amusement was crowded last Saturday evening. The largest number of spectators, and participants was present than has been in attendance at any one time since the skating season commenced. On Wednesday evening a grand Promenade Concert will be given at the Rink. Arrangements have been effected with the 21st Infantry Band, and an abundance of very superior music will be furnished on the occasions.

ARE RESTRAINED.—A little fellow, named Robert Linsey, aged about 9 years, while playing a few days since with several other small boys at the Portland Academy, slipped and fell. His right arm was severely bruised, and also badly sprained. He was assisted home by his playmates, and the limb received the proper medical attention. The severe fall and its results will necessitate the carrying of the limb in a sling for some days.

AWARDED A DIPLOMA.—At the graduating exercises of the California Medical College, held at the Calvary Presbyterian Church, San Francisco, on Thursday, 5th inst., Mr. M. M. Chipman was awarded a diploma. This gentleman formerly resided in Portland, where he has many friends. Mr. Chipman is somewhat advanced in life, being over 50 years of age.

THE LECTURE.—Rev. M. May will deliver the fifth lecture of the course at Museum Hall tomorrow evening. His subject will be: "Is it advisable to educate the Chinese in America for the purpose of converting them to Christianity?" Rev. M. May will take the negative of this question. He strikes out in a new field of thought, and without doubt will draw a large house.

STREET CLEANING.—Street Commissioner Davis informs us that many persons, who have been notified to clean the streets in front of their property, have paid no attention to the notice. He says that if the streets are not cleaned within the next three days, he will have to enforce the ordinance, and will do so without favor.

SOIREE.—There was a large attendance at the soiree given last Saturday evening at the Armory of the City Rifles, under the management of Profs. Parrish and Parrott, and at Profs. Schwendell and Halpruner's Dancing Academy. Both proved enjoyable affairs.

AMUSEMENTS.

ORO FINO THEATER.—This place of amusement was crowded on Saturday, both at matinee and in the evening. "Marble Heart" was produced at matinee in excellent style. "Arrah-na-Pogue" was repeated in the evening to a large audience in a faultless manner. Mr. Sawtelle, the talented young American actor, has been re-engaged by the managers for a short season. A number of new and sensational pieces are in active course of preparation, and are promised at an early day.

MR. CROWELL'S BENEFIT.—Mr. E. J. Crowell, who has so often contributed to the enjoyment of our theater-goers, will be the recipient of a complimentary benefit at Oro Fino Theater this evening. On this occasion Bulwer's great play of "Lady of Lyons" will be produced with a powerful cast. "Colonel Dumas" will be the role assumed by the beneficiary, in which he is remarkably clever, and "Claude Melnotte" will be personated by Mr. Sawtelle (we feel warranted in saying that he will acquit himself handsomely), and Mrs. Phelps will appear in the role of the lovely "Pauline." The rest of the company will appear in the cast. Already a large number of reserved seats have been sold, and a crowded house may be anticipated.

PASSENGER LIST.

THE SERVICE OF PRAISE.

The introduction of a new hymn and tune book in the Presbyterian Church of this city was the occasion of a discourse on Singing God's Praise in the Sanctuary. The text was Psalm 50 23:

Whoso offereth praise glorifieth me.

And Psalm 57:3

Let the people praise thee, O God, let all the people praise thee.

Dr. Lindsley said: The humane soul was adapted to find its true enjoyment in God, its Creator. But to secure this, the soul must be in harmony with God. It was created thus. The keynote of its life-music was struck in Heaven, and sounded out in Paradise. There was no discord till Satan struck the keys with the din of evil, and the disturbance grew into enmity, and man was alienated from God.

The end of all this was nothing less than banishment from the presence of the Lord, and the glory of his power.

But Jesus Christ came to rectify the disordered action—to retune every string of the harp—to adapt the instrument in all its parts to the harmonies of the new music, which, with endless melodies and variations should celebrate the expression of God's love and man's happiness.

So the song of redemption was set to music to touch all hearts. And this way of reaching the heart was the wisest that could be contrived.

Any sound excites attention. Musical sounds with the regular movements and inflections, the sweet cadences and varied expression delight the ear, and awaken a thrill of emotion.

The trite quotation, "there is in souls a sympathy with sounds," expresses the exact truth—so universally true, that the unmusical soul is sometimes treated harshly, as by the great dramatist who took poetic license when he wrote:

"The man that hath no music in his soul
Is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils."

There are men who have music in their souls and songs on their lips, who prove themselves fit for the same evil things. And a bad song coming from an evil heart is therefore a great corrupter of mankind. For music is one of the most dangerous means of influence in a bad cause, for the same reason that it may be made most influential for good—that is, its power to excite the emotions, and then inflame the passions, and after that leave upon the memory the impressions thus created, to rekindle the excitement. Music wedded to lyric poetry is an unsurpassed instrumentality of good or evil, according as the sentiment of the song is true or false.

The secret of this power cannot be explained, although its existence cannot be questioned. For music takes the senses captive, charms the soul, makes it submissive, or arouses it to extraordinary activity. It calms or excites equally the most polished and the rudest. But when the music is accompanied with words its power is greatly magnified. It first fascinates by its concord of sweet sounds, and then inclines the hearer to adopt the sentiments of the song. The sentiment becomes pleasing, because the melody is pleasing. Such music stirs the fountains of thought and feeling; fosters in the heart the sentiment which it expresses, and fixes it in the memory.

These views are not new and peculiar, but have been always understood. The most ancient authors often wrote history in verse; and legislators composed their laws in poetic numbers and sang them, to fix them more deeply in the memory of the people. Although other methods are employed now, it is doubted whether any were ever so influential, because none were so natural. When, however, the melody dwelt on no cold abstraction, but touched the chords of feeling, the effect was overpowering.

We can account for the marvelous power of music in those ancient ages only by reflecting that the founts of feeling are nearer the surface and their channels less obstructed in the early life of nations. The after growth often makes the fine arts too fine, and the taste too critical. The freshness often disappears under the pressure of high art; and simplicity is overburdened with fantastic attempts to ornament nature. A fastidious criticism imposes arbitrary laws, and a corrupt taste chokes the channels and prevents the flow of feeling, unless it finds its course through the artificial canals which amateurs have built.

Still how grandly a simple ballad or a genuine melody bursts the barriers, overflows all hearts and captivates all tastes! The democracy of song asserts its power in the cottage and the mansion, and tends to harmonize all. It was a shrewd observer of human nature who exclaimed, "Let me write the ballads of a nation, and I care not who writes the laws."

These general remarks apply to every species of music, vocal and instrumental. Love of home, of kindred, of country, all find the tenderest and most adequate expression in musif and in song. Equally are the religious sentiments expressed in lyric poetry, and celebrated and magnified in melodious numbers. These come down to us from remote antiquity—hymns which were sung in the worship of the gods, many of them being beautiful examples of classic literature.

Sacred music has always been a part of worship. The altar of praise stood close to the altar of sacrifice. The sacred songs of the ancient church, collected into a single book of Holy Scripture, furnish abundant evidence of the design and prominence of this part of worship. The Psalms of David, expressing every shade of devout sentiment, fanning sacred emotion into a flame, and providing utterance for every variety of experience, will in these respects never be equaled. And the Church of Christ, adding to the Psalms, according to Apostolic example and command, hymns and spiritual songs, forever sings the praises of God the Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

It is impossible to estimate the influence of a good song or hymn. Some of the best and brightest minds have earnestly sought the inspiration to compose lyrics which would impart innocent pleasure and lend support to virtue and goodness. Robert Burns was mentioned, who in his poem addressed to the gudewife of Wakout, referring to his youthful aspirations, thus writes:

Even then a wish, (I mind its power,)
A wish that to its latest hour,
Shall strongly heave my breast,
That I for poor auld Scotland's sake,
Some useful plan or book could make,
Or sing a song at least.

Shut up in the castle of Wartzburg, Luther poured forth his famous lyric,

Ein feste Burg unser Gott,

Which electrified Germany like a battle-cry, was sung every where in convent, cottage and palace, and with other hymns of Luther, led on the Reformation. It is still and doubtless ever will be a classic hymn of the Fatherland.

The preacher referred to Isaac Watts, John and Charles Wesley, and other hymn writers, in modern times, and affirmed that next to Holy Scripture, the Hymns of the Church Universal, gathered from Hebrew and Christian sources, had been instrumental in enlivening the graces, directing the devotions, ministering to the comfort and forming the character of the people of God.

Many of these sacred lyrics were learned in childhood, and never forgotten. The great statesman John Quincy Adams, who had shown in courts abroad and wore the highest honors at home, a man profound in law and literature, and grand in his integrity, said when he was an old man, that he never knew the time that he went to sleep without repeating the familiar prayer which his mother taught him, beginning "Now I lay me down to sleep."

I pity the fool that can frame a sneer upon such a fact. It discloses a grand experience of a single life; and yet he is only one of unnumbered millions, who could stand up and declare the same thing. I would rather have been the author of that prayer than to have written the Iliad!

When Gardiner Spring, whose fame was in all the churches, lay on his last pillow, unmindful of what was passing, he was heard mingling with that prayer another which his mother taught him, "Lord, make me a good boy." Ah, the stately Dr. Spring was a child again, at his mother's knee! And Thomas Guthrie, whom not to know were a disgrace to a Scotchman, when he was fading out of this life, bequeathed what could be done for him, said, "Sing me a bairn's hymn." And the bairn's hymn was sung, in which he joined, and finished it in Heaven.

How vast the responsibility of those who compose and select the sacred songs of childhood! These melodies stick to us through life—they will not be forgotten in eternity. They make a huge mistake who suppose that the hymns of youth must be kept on the level of nursery rhymes—or that to fill a hymn with saving truth will make it disagreeable. The words simple and expressive, the tune appropriate, and both devotional, make the combined influence which raises the soul to God, while warbling its praise.

All genuine emotions rise, all true affections flow, under the inspiration of sacred melodies. There is no phase of human experience which they do not reach and bless. And in the atmosphere of holy song, the soul plumes its flight and wings its way to Heaven.

The usefulness of praise in the worship of God, demands that the best provision should be made for it in our sanctuaries. "Let all the people praise Thee" suggests that the whole assembly should join in singing "psalms and hymns and spiritual songs." To promote this part of worship, requires

1. That the people should be suitably disposed. There are two obstacles. A refined taste which delights to listen to the performance of a well trained choir; and at the other extreme, ignorance of the art of singing. The first should be persuaded to assist in the performance of a duty from which no one is exempt who has the gift of song, and the latter should learn to sing. The natural ability to learn is well nigh universal. Every one who can distinguish the tones and inflections of the voice, can learn to sing.

It is next required that the congregation be suitably led. Our well trained choir and well managed organ leave nothing to be desired in this respect.

It is also required that the congregation be suitably provided with a book of hymns and tunes. The new hymnal was then exhibited and described, and upon being submitted to a vote of the congregation, it was adopted.

COMPLIMENTARY RESOLUTIONS.

The steamer Orpflamme, of last Saturday, took away as passenger Miss Gemma Frankie, who goes to Florence, Italy, the home of her parents. For the last two years she has found a welcome home in the family of Rev. E. F. Heroy, who succeeded in finding her people, of whom she knew nothing, save that it had been told her that they were in Italy. On Thanksgiving Day, 1873, she received her first letter from home, full of joyful and grateful expressions for having found, after seventeen years' fruitless search, a long lost child. During her residence of four years in Portland she has made a host of friends, and when two weeks since, word came, "Come home!" many hearts beat quickly, and many expressions of love and sympathy were given her. The Taylor street M. E. Sabbath School, at its last session, previous to her departure, passed the following resolutions:

Believing it right, on all proper occasions, to express our admiration of the good, and recognizing the fact that such occasion has been presented in the immediate removal to a distant home, of our beloved classmate and friend, Miss Gemma Frankie; therefore

Resolved, That in her removal we realize that we have lost a dear classmate, and this school an active and successful member.

Resolved, That we each and all tender to her our thanks for her uniform kindness, and for the example of a Christian life she has given us.

Resolved, That in going, our best wishes and earnest prayers for life, health and happiness on earth and peace in Heaven go with her.

Radical Medication.

Medication is only successful when it is rational, and it is rational only when it begins at the beginning. In other words, to cure a malady, its cause must be removed. Weakness, either general or local, is the origin of the great majority of diseases. Reinforce the vital energies, regulate digestion and assertion by strengthening the organs which perform those all important functions, and dyspepsia constipation, kidney and bladder complaints, uterine difficulties, impure circulation, and the thousand and one ailments which are the consequences of debility, are completely, and in most cases permanently, removed. The best, safest and most agreeable tonic and alterative that can be employed for this purpose is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The experience of twenty-five years, during which time it has outlived perhaps ten times that number of ephemeral preparations which have entered into competition with it, has proved it to be unequalled as a remedy for all disorders accompanied by or proceeding from weakness.

FALSE WHILE YOU READ THIS! The season for parties and balls has arrived and the cold dreary days and nights of winter will soon visit us. Every young man, old man and boy for that matter, likes to present a neat appearance when attending parties, the theater, or walking about the streets. They likewise desire to be well provided against the cold blasts of snow and rain. What contributes more to the personal appearance and comfort of a gentleman or boy than a nice closely fitting suit of clothes, set off with a heavy warm overcoat? Why will any one be so foolish as to go without either, when HECK & WALDMAN have everything in that line? Heck & Waldman in laying in their immense fall and winter stock of Clothing have exercised great care, and selected with reference to the demands of trade. They have purchased their goods low and are determined not to be undersold. Let the public note this fact.

The great Frenchman, Altarocbe, made specialties of irony and sarcasm in all his writings, but JOHN O'NEIL & CO. make specialties of selling the finest clothing, underwear, cravats, ties and hats at unparalleled low prices. For a winter suit there's are of the best, so get yourself dressed and be at rest. This is not irony or sarcasm, but stubborn fact as everybody will find out who goes to their store. Naked truth is good, but people can't go about in that way and must have clothing, and the supplies received by this firm are just what are wanted for the season.

THE WASHINGTON SAFE BURGLARY CASE

CROSS EXAMINATION OF A M GIBSON

[From Washington dispatches of Nov 13]

Witness is a correspondent of the New York Sun had taken no interest in looking up this case only such as his duty as a journalist in search of news prompted him to take was in frequent consultation with Solicitor Wilson and Mr Liddle only as he sought for news as he did in all the departments Witness was asked if he wrote several articles which have appeared in the Sun denouncing the judge and jury and said he had not denounced either of them

Q—Did you write the article headed "A Mockery of Justice" Witness said he did not make that is to articles was not responsible for them and could not identify his articles by the heads made over them

The witness was sharply questioned about the articles which had appeared in the Sun but said he could not tell about them unless the articles were shown him

CONCLUSION OF THE TRIAL

Both sides agreed that the testimony was now all in

Mr Day dge for the defense made a proposition to submit the case to the jury without argument

Mr Bird for the Government objected

Mr Riddle stated that he was so ill he could not remain in court the remainder of the day and was about to suggest that the Court adjourn over till to morrow when Mr Davidge said that, inasmuch as the case would run into next week he would suggest that the Court be adjourned to Monday

After 15 minutes spent in arranging matters the Judge said he thought he had learned enough from counsel to adjourn the Court till Monday at 12 o clock and on that day they would have a continuous sitting until Mr Hill had completed his argument, or until 4 o clock. By arrangements between counsel, there are to be at least four arguments to the jury, and perhaps more Each will probably occupy the attention of the jury one day

The Court instructed the jury again and warned the bailiffs in charge that they had a solemn duty to perform in the case Adjourned till Monday

VICE-PRESIDENT WILSON, THE NEW YORK "TIMES" AND GENERAL GRANT

Probably no one was more faithful to him one was Henry Wilson the Vice-President of the United States and the other was the editor of the New York Times Both these friends preferred to tell him true things rather than pleasant ones They told him the third term people would never do, and they warned him of other dangers ahead, which were apparent to them, but which he was not far sighted enough to see

The President, however prefers those around him who told him pleasant things in place of true ones Pre[s]ident of the third term were sweet to him and he delighted to listen to them while he was [illegible] with the Times that he procured the establishment of a new organ—different from the ordinary street [illegible] several monkeys attached to it—and he was so angry with Vice-President Wilson that he would not see him the last time he called at the [illegible]

Now what has the result proved? Is General Grant as well off to-day as he would have been if he had listened to the admonitions of Mr Wilson and the Times? He did not understand the independence and pride [illegible] to punish [illegible] actual to [illegible] power and influence He preferred [illegible] of no more value than the coward and [illegible] of a slave.

Possibly some day, it may dawn upon the mind of the President that sycophants are not always the safest counselors, and that the independent [illegible] of robust, strong and faithful men is not lightly to be cast aside—New York Sun.

Tribute to Carl Schurz from a Prominent Organ—Hon Carl Schurz the most eminent orator and statesman whom the old world has given to the new is to deliver his lecture on "Education of Problems" at the Opera House this afternoon at 3 o clock There is no man in the country better worth hearing on any subject he chooses to discuss than Carl Schurz A man of rare intellectual gifts and broad culture—no one has studied more profoundly or with a keener philosophical insight the great social problems of the age—and the subject of his lecture is one in which we would expect a rarely eloquent discourse No one can afford to miss the opportunity which is happily afforded our citizens of hearing one of the most eloquent, logical and philosophical orators of the day —St Paul Press, Nov 13

Latest Liverpool advices denote a quiet market Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d@10s 1d for club per cental average and 10s 4d @ 10s 10d for club per cental The London market is quoted at 41 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and 14s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown

From our exchanges we learn that a very considerable proportion of the spring wheat crop was sold during the past week and that in the country money is hardly so stringent as before. Remittances to the market are also better but not yet of such a volume as to relieve entirely the feeling of closeness which has prevailed for some time The amount of available funds is apparently about as large as a week ago though it is still a matter of necessity for lenders to be careful of their resources and judicious in their loans in order to meet the urgent demand arising from the present and prospective heavy movement of wheat

The volume of trade lings in our local market to day is quite handsome with but few and unimportant changes in prices Sugars refined have fallen one half cent per pound, and dressed hogs have advanced the same amount Wheat is steady at $1 35 per cental and flour weak at our last quotations with very large receipts Eggs have declined to 40 cents per dozen and are weak Choice bacon is in brisk demand at good prices
